Documentary & Album Launch

For those in the North Carolina area, Alex and her work as photographer/caretaker will be featured in the documentary "Winter's Watch" by filmmaker, Brian Bolster, screening April 8th at the Full Frame Documentary Film Festival.

And though not exclusively photography-related, Alex is always open to the broader possibilities of creation and expression. In that vein, she's been including journal entries on the walls of her photographic exhibits and has received enthusiastic feedback from this addition. To continue this creative stretch, she's crowdsourcing the launch of her first album of original songs. Think of it as a verbal-musical snapshot, if you will, that explores many of the same themes in her photographs.
