Article

Gary's current show, Pictures at an Exhibition: Points of View, is briefly reviewed in the Washington Post:

In the galleries: Artists, too, might someday be replaced by machines

Anthes in LensWork and LensWork Extended #136 Art/Space: Points of View

"As a frequent visitor to museums and galleries, I often think about the viewers' role in art. I try to imagine what the people around me are thinking and feeling. Why are they there? Why do they take snapshots of selected work? And what will they do with those images? Rarely do I get answers, and I depart knowing more about the (often dead) artists whose work I have seen than about the living people standing right next to me."
