"His life in photography, some 60 years of it, is a study in thoughtful and sensitive observation. His memoir recalls his journey as a photographer, and the many interesting people whom he has met."

~ From foreword by Dennis Reed, Professor Emeritus of Art, Los Angeles Valley College

Ross in LensWork and LensWork Extended #93 Abstracts, 1953-2010

The camera taught me not only to look, but to see. It was the perfect tool for capturing – as abstract compositions – that which exists beyond casual vision.
